The Michigan Main Street program is an economic development tool based in historic preservation. Focused on the revitalization of traditional commercial districts, the program encompasses four key components: design, organization, promotion, and economic restructuring. Qualifying communities receive facade rehabilitation design assistance from the Michigan Main Street architect as part of the technical services package. Taking advantage of the design services provided by the Michigan Main Street program, Joel and Sara Paga rehabilitated the facade of the office in the spring/summer of 2005. The final product provides a significant visual impact to Lake Street and the entire Main Street area of Boyne City.
